Civilization 1931

Carnera-Sharkey

A Sad Dinosaur

Ladies Present

By Arthur Brisbane

IF in ancient Rome you had attended the gladiatorial fights, emperor looking on, populace pointing its thumbs up or down, all classes represented, you would have a fairly clear idea of Roman civilization.

Sitting through other eyes a modern spectacle in which brutality is the amusement, with men set to fight and get an idea of our civilization and manner.

Primo Carnera fought with a powerful Lithuanian, who chose to call himself "Jack Sharkey."

In our prize fights, as in other lines American civilization has achieved "mass production."

The old prize fight, described in Hazlitt's essay, shows a few spectators gathered in an isolated spot, around men fighting with bare fists on the turf.

Night before last 30,000 men and women went a long way to Ebbett's Field in Brooklyn, N. Y., to sit through cold hours of the early night, around a ring with powerful lights overhead that made the fighters visible far away.

As at other banquets, there were "hors d'oeuvre" fights by minor fighters, to whet the appetite. In dressing rooms below ground were a dozen such fighters, a majority with rather long noses, usually broken, just below the forehead.

Some were "ambitious beginners." Others, described as "punch drunk," their brains jarred so often in prize fights, were headed, probably, for the insane asylum.

The two "great" fighters each had separate rooms, each with half a dozen men to take care of him, winding heavy tape around his knuckles to prevent bones breaking, telling him how great he was, to keep up his morale.

James J. Johnson, who came from Liverpool, was directing the fight, his enterprise, "You cannot mistake him, for he is built like Lawrence, Barrett, and always wears a black derby hat, and is a philosopher. 'The last 10 seconds should make a champion,' says he. Young ones that get tired easily should remember that."

In one "preliminary" Mr. Cobb might be the best heavy-weight fighter in the world, if he would take care of himself and train." He fights a Negro, both weigh about 200 pounds.

The Negro, in a dressing gown of many colors, would have been brought early by the Queen of Sheba, smiles and dances, quite happy for part of a minute.

But when that preliminary is over, Cobb lifts him up and carries him to his chair unconciously. That is over, and the crowd is well pleased.

When the fighting is slow, no mood to witness, little action, the crowd hives and hoes.

At last the "big man" comes on, the "Jack Sharkey," from the land that lies above the Baltic Sea, as heavier than the majority of fighting champions, weighs 250 pounds, six feet six inches tall.

As he stands in the ring, shaking hands with the gigantic Italian, these men who look like a little boy beside his father, referee "Gunkoth."

Smith, whose nose was broken in a classical manner long ago, conqueror of many of the best, refuses to give the "Jack Sharkey" a second round.

"Sharkey can box, he knows how to hit," Carnera has only what God Almighty gave him."

Divine gifts to Primo Carnera are impressive. Without an ounce of fat, his waist only two inches bigger than that of Sharkey, he weighs 265 pounds, stands nearly six feet six inches height. He is a huge body that his ancestors brought down from the North over the Alps into Italy long ago.

His gentle eyes are a soft brown, and he seems to wonder why "promoters" observing his enormous muscles, decided to make him prize fighter.

He need not wonder, for James Johnson, wearer of the black derby, says "this derby" will make a million dollars out of him."

You must know that many prize fighters are "owned" now, as gladiators were owned in Rome.

About the fight that lasted 15 rounds, 45 minutes of fighting with a minute of rest between each round, you read yesterday it interested. It was a dull affair, sort of "irresistible force meeting an immovable obstacle."

Carnera is an tall that Sharkey could reach his face with great difficulty, and confined himself to attacks on the pit of Carnera's stomach, which he battered again and again with terrific power, driving his blows as often as possible on the left side "under the heart," cutting the skin.

Heavy Troop Movements Are Started as Tokio Rejects Nanking Peace Plan

BULLETIN

General, Oct. 14 (INS)—Another note protesting Japanese activities in China, delivered to the League of Nations tonight by Dr. Alfred So, Chinese delegate, said: "Twelve Japanese airplanes dropped 48 bombs on Shanghai, Oct. 13, of which seven were dropped on a hospital near the Bund."

Peiping, Oct. 14—While peace-makers in America and Europe labored today to stave off war, heavy Japanese troop movements began south of Mukden and caused a battle in which seven Chinese were killed and many wounded.

According to available reports here, the Japanese forces numbered 125. They were the Chinese band, numbering about 300, several hours after leaving Mukden on the first of a number of troop trains.

No casualties were reported among the Japanese.

The Japanese military headquarters declared its 15,000 men paraded to "exterminate bandits." The troop movements disrupted regular train service, forcing George Hanson and Laurence Salinger, American consular officials inspecting the "war zone" to postpone their departure for Chinchow, headquarters of Marshal Chiang.

Several thousand Chinese soldiers were reported among the Japanese.

Aimee Heals Sick as She Faces $15,000 Deficit

A $15,000 deficit is staring Aimee McPherson Hurley right in the face. But she has barely afternoon as she "peaked" the sick.

Her attempt to save Boston's soul in a nine-day revival campaign may have that amount, it was figured at the Boston Grand today.

Despite last night's record attendance of 10,000 persons at her "revival" with Old Portland, the collection didn't meet the announced $2000-a-week target. The deficit was the latter part of her revival, the financial aspect of affairs takes a pronounced upward turn, with a look of millions in attendance between now and Sunday night.

Aimee Elizabeth Kennedy McPherson Hurley is going to pay a lot of money for her efforts to save Boston's soul.

Maybe that is on account of Mayor Curley's successful effort to "put her on the spot" with regard to a $500 donation with the poor.

There is this to be said about the woman evangelist, who takes with outward good grace the prospect of having to pay a lot of money for being a evangelist, and facing a heavy financial loss, the committee of the church, of her best or followers.

She told her big audience last night that regardless of their ability to meet the expenses of her

GOVERNOR'S DENOUNCES 'NONSENSE' REPORTS

State Funds Sent to Somerville Banks Safe, Hurley Reports

Protection of "whisperers" against banks and financial institutions and possible arrests of officials responsible for those already closed were threatened today by Governor Ely after a conference with Bank Commissioner Guy.

The Governor's statement came as $500,000 in state funds were being rushed to the Somerville Trust Co., to whom what was termed a "nonsense run" that started at the opening hour today.

"Intention has reached me that rumors have been spread in regard to the condition of certain banks," Gov. Ely said.

"Such statements detrimental to the actual condition of a banking institution constitutes a criminal offense."

The State money was transferred to Somerville personally by State Treasurer Charles F. Hurley in an automobile guarded by a motorcycle squad of State Police.

The fund transfer was ordered after a conference between the Commissioner Guy and Gov. Ely in which Gov. Ely stated the Governor the run was "all nonsense."

"The Somerville Trust Co. is a substantial and well managed institution which has no obligations," Ely said.

"The institutions which have been closed were closed because of a lack of management, and a thorough investigation of these institutions will be ordered at once to place the blame where it belongs."

"In reference to one of these institutions, plans are under way to provide for its reorganization and we have no intention to make an offer within a day or two."

State Treasurer Hurley said: "The State funds in the full amount of state funds allowed by law into this bank. This money is being held in the vaults of the State Bank, and will consist of 40 per cent of the total capital of the bank, or about $500,000."

"The fact that all the trust companies and national banks in Cambridge already had a sufficient amount of state funds in them is in my opinion, all these banks are safe and sound, and runs on them are unwarranted."

Gov. Ely's Warning

Governor Ely has acted with characteristic decisiveness in his warning to rumor mongers. Persons who spread unfounded reports, endangering banks, are liable to imprisonment. Rumors have caused considerable withdrawal of funds, well called "nonsense runs," in the past few days.

It is too good for the authors of this particular form of depravity.

The public is assured by Governor Ely and by State Treasurer Hurley that Massachusetts banks, with few exceptions, are sound and safe. These officials showed their confidence by rushing thousands of dollars in State money to one of the banks where a run has been started by rumor mongers.

Their assurance should quiet the fears of thousands of depositors who naturally are disturbed by malicious whisperings. Our Massachusetts banks are a pattern for the banking system of the world. They have the experience and sound judgment of centuries behind them. Their per capita deposits are unmatched anywhere, showing the confidence of the people in them.

The people should not be misled by the whisperings of irresponsible busybodies. Precipitating a run might cause losses to depositors in a bank where otherwise there would be no loss.

Messrs. Ely and Hurley and Banking Commissioner Guy are keeping close watch on the situation, to protect the savings of the people. They may be called upon to take such steps as may be necessary to carry out this purpose.

THEBAUD READY FOR CUP RACES

By TOM BORGAN

Halifax, N. S., Oct. 14 (AP)—The United States had come to Canada today to settle, or more probably, to continue, the question of sailing supremacy of the North Atlantic fishing fleets.

The challenger, the schooner Gertrude L. Thebaud, had tied up after what was regarded as a record 31-hour passage from her home port, Gloucester.

She is all ready for the coming classic.

The schooner Bluenose, Capt. Angus Walters' veteran salt tanker and the present title holder, was en route from Lunenburg to the scene of the duel this Saturday.

Captain John Matheson, slim, seagreen and youthful looking for his years, will serve as mate aboard the Gloucesterman in the approaching contest for the international fishermen's trophy, under Captain Ben Elin, her regular skipper.

Some trouble ensued Capt. Pine to travel by train instead of aboard his charge, and he was still here today.

The Gloucester challenger had a lovely luxurious passage, alighting only a single steamer and a school of whales on the voyage East. It was a pleasant surprise when she was met and greeted off the Nova Scotia coast by the Canadian cruiser Champlain.

Judge Trude gave her a divorce.

DROPPED MANY THOUSANDS ON HORSES

Gang Chieftain Was a Poor Picker: Wrong Most of the Time, They Testify

Chicago, Oct. 14 (AP)—Al Capone today opened his fight for acquittal on charges of evading income taxes with an account of his gambling losses.

The husky gang leader is a poor judge of race horses, the jury in United States Circuit Court was told today.

"He won some bets, but not very many," Milton Held, a bookmaker testified.

Held, although he had no records to prove it, could remember no individual transactions, estimated that Capone lost between $500 and $10,000 during the summer meeting at the Hawthorne race track in 1924 and about $12,000 in the fall of 1925 at the same track.

"I would make bets ranging from $500 to $500 on a race," Held testified, "and he bet on four or five races a day. He usually paid his losses with $100 bills, but sometimes he gave me a $500 bill."

Held admitted under cross-examination that his bookmaking was in violation of the law, and said he had followed the business for 20 years or more. He said he made only about $200 at the track in 1924, and about that much more at my office down town.

Oscar Cutler, another bookie who described himself as a "commission broker who handled sporting events, mostly horses," said Capone lost about $60,000 betting on races at the various tracks near Chicago in the summer of 1927.

"Sometimes he would place $500 on a horse to win and $500 to place," Cutler said.

GENERALLY LOST

"Yes, they most generally lost," he said with a smile in answer to a question as to his customers.

Johnny Torrio, Pete Penovich and Louis L. Capone all just at present, gang figures who were originally subpoenaed as government witnesses, were in the Federal building today, supposedly waiting to be called as witnesses for their friend Capone. None of them was put on the stand by the prosecution.

Edward G. Robinson, film star, had been featured in gang pictures, was a visitor at the trial today. He stayed about 10 minutes.

OWEN D. YOUNG APPEALS TO STUDENTS

Every School and College Team Urged to Devote One Game to Cause

New York, Oct. 14 (INS)—Owen D. Young, chairman of the committee on mobilization of President Hoover's organization on unemployment relief, today appealed to every school and college football eleven in the United States on behalf of the jobless.

He asked that each team give the game proceeds, less actual expenses, of at least one football game this fall to the emergency relief funds now being raised throughout the nation.

Young suggested that if necessary post-season games be arranged so the unemployment relief contests may be played.

BACKED BY COLLEGE HEADS.

The plan has the backing of many college presidents. It was announced that college heads in various sections of the country were sought by Young as the

13TH BOMBING IN FILM WAR

Chicago, Oct. 14 (AP)—The 13th bomb hurled at theaters involved in the controversy between allied independent owners and the Motion Picture Operators' Union was exploded early today.

It was tossed at the feet of two policemen on guard in front of the Easter Theater. The police immediately kicked the missile into the street and began firing at the fleeing bombers' automobile. None was injured.

The bomb exploded there, shattering windows in the theater and in other buildings within a radius of a block.

This explosion occurred 24 hours after four operators brought from Eastern cities to work in the theaters said they were fired on while exiting in a downtown restaurant.

One of them, Morris Giffelman, New York, was slightly injured.

Typhoon Kills 30; 230 May Be Dead

Tokyo, Oct. 14 (AP)—Thirty persons were known dead and many were missing today following one of the worst typhoons in years.

A report that 200 persons were missing in the town of Oga, Miyagi Prefecture, could not be confirmed.

Torrential rains, accompanied by high winds, swept western and central Japan, leaving behind floods and devastation.

Whitlock Gains

Brussels, Belgium, Oct. 14 (AP)—Brand Whitlock, former ambassador to Belgium, who has been ill of pleurisy, was said to be in good condition today.

West Orange, N. J., Oct. 14 (AP)—The condition of Thomas A. Edison, critical for weeks, remained unchanged today. His doctor noted a "gradually progressive emaciation," preceding, he said, the inevitable coma.

The only nourishment taken by the 85-year-old inventor in four days has been six teaspoonfuls of stewed peaches.

He roused from heavy sleep yesterday and recognized his wife and whispered something in her ear. His mind, said Dr. Hubert S. Howe, has remained clear and even his body has shown little outward evidence of the complication of diseases from which he is suffering.

Robert (Uncle Bob) Sherwood, 75-year-old circus clown and friend of Edison for half a century, called at the Edison estate yesterday. The two met for the first time when a circus wagon broke down near the home of Edison's father-in-law near Akron, O.

EUGENIE BOOM ON WANE

BUT DANBURY CASHES IN

Danbury, Ct., Oct. 14 (INS)—It all started the boom which has snatched a quarter of the population of this Connecticut city of 27,000 people—because some theatrical impresario in Paris revived an opera in which the stars were costumes of the period in which Napoleon won the battle of Austerlitz.

When the boom reached its peak about Sept. 15, some 6000 or 8000 workers here found their skill in demand at factories which only a short time before had had "No Help Wanted" signs hanging up.

Just what is the best way to buy tires?

You've been listening to chain stores, mail-order houses, filling stations and regular tire dealers. What should you believe? This great tire company with more than 37 years of experience in manufacturing the finest tires—and whose sales in 1931 are enjoying an enormous increase—wishes to discuss the whole question frankly, with an eye to clearing up the fog for tire buyers.

IN EVERY PERIOD OF DEPRESSION the public is tempted to experiment with a cheaper article. "Unknown brands"—the names of their makers concealed from the public—flock on the market. And usually these Unknowns sell at lower prices.

But here is the strange situation at present in tires. The Unknowns are here, but they are not cheaper in price. Kelly-Springfield standard tires are selling for the same low prices as the Unknowns. And their buyers get not only a better product. They receive—from a responsible dealer—care and service for the life of the tires.

After the sale is made

It is the experience of Kelly-Springfield that such service by its dealers adds at least 25 cents in tire life to every dollar spent for tires. Such service includes proper inflation, rotation of tires, frequent inspections of wheel, axle and other adjustments affecting the tires.

You see why we consider good tire dealers so important, why Kelly-Springfield tires are sold only through legitimate tire dealers in each community, why we refuse to sell our tires under other brands through channels that will not serve the public. You see why we own no stores and subsidize no stores.

We will not attempt to make two profits on our tires at the expense of dealers whose function it is to serve the public.

Now what are the facts about tires?

From our more than 37 years of experience we recognize numerous facts about tires—of importance to tire buyers—that at present are being lost sight of. For your guidance, we'd like to state a few of them, including—with your permission—a few important don'ts.

1. Don't expect all makes of tires to be equally good

You can't discount 37 years of insistence on quality, workmanship and high reputation. Kelly-Springfield's great modern factory—at Cumberland, Maryland—was designed and built, all at one time, to promote fine workmanship in every known way. We have reasons to consider our workmen the finest skilled labor in the tire manufacturing world.

2. Don't measure tires with scales and a tape measure

You might as well expect a heavier fat man to knock out a prize-fighter, as to expect toughness and staying qualities to be built into a tire merely by adding weight and thickness. Every tire man knows that there are on the market today shoddy, flabby tires—unsafe and unfit for use—that would pass any test for weight and thickness. The design of the walls and the tread, the quality of the materials used, the experienced skill in compounding, the number of years spent in building quality tires, the attention given to fine skilled labor—those are some of the things that make tires tough and safe for many thousands of miles. Here is just one illustration of quality building. Kelly-Springfield plies are impregnated with live rubber compound under a pressure of more than 5000 pounds to the square inch. These super plies are the toughest structures imaginable. They almost defy destruction.

3. Don't forget safety and comfort depend on fine tires

Conditions today—smaller wheels, more powerful pick-up, faster speeds, faster four-wheel braking—increase enormously the stress on tire walls and treads. With tons of steel straining at the walls of your tires as they speed around curves and over uneven roads, the stress is terrific. And your tires are the only things between you and destruction. Tires today—unless they are the best that can be made—are liable to be the weakest parts of your car. Also, dead, sluggish tires destroy luxurious riding comfort.

4. Don't buy a tire from anybody who can't give you service

Just remember your tires work every minute. When they come into the garage from pounding the roads, they shoulder the weight of your car while it rests. Any constantly working part demands care and attention. Your tires respond to the kind of service that Kelly-Springfield dealers give by living and serving at least 25 per cent longer.

We hope we have cleared the air so that tire buyers can get hold of some of the facts about tires. Remember that in this year of economy, the sales of Kelly-Springfield tires are increasing rapidly.

No other prices are lower. Buy now for safe winter driving

See these tough, safe, resilient, long-lasting tires. Let a skilled Kelly-Springfield dealer serve you. These are the bottom prices in the tire industry. Buy now for safe winter driving.

LOVE IN RUSSIA AND LOVE IN ITS PLACE

By GILBERT SELDES

"WHAT" WRITES JOHN FORREST, in capitals and near top of his voice, "what's the idea of razing love? Are you taking on us? Love is all right." Cowering under this attack, I will fall to floundering the cause. I noted the other day that love was taking the place of business as the great incentive to being well dressed, clean shaven and personally as sweet as the breath of the king; I definitely traced myself on the side of love, the redemptive and inspiring of mankind. I agree with the vehement Mr. Forrest that love is a thing only I would add that it is a thing in its place, which is the home. In public places about the home.

Soviet and Sex

In Liam O'Flaherty's rather bad-tempered book, "I Went to Russia," there are at least three statements about love which are interesting. First, a doctor tells him:

"The situation is such. In Soviet Union, sexual relations have been reorganized on rational system, so to speak. My wife and I live together on this basis. While we find mutual existence, so to say, socially useful to both of us, we are married. Afterward we become separate citizens. I meet her in from one day. We both like it. Next day we marry. She is such a type, fond of marriage. Already she marries five times. So life is. Already I begin to think there are, perhaps, in Soviet Union, women more socially useful to me than my wife."

from two, a woman waiting for a nearly-demon lover

"Last winter I had a lover. Now he has left me. . . . It is bad. For a fully developed female it is bad to be without a lover."

And, finally, another woman criticizing this one

"She would be unhappy anywhere. She is constitutionally incapable of social optimism. Her life centers around her own personality. In order to be happy in the new society, we must live not for ourselves, but for others, for the mass."

Liquidating Love

I have heard, from time to time, that the young people of Russia have a strange attitude (traditions) about love. They think it is good for them and good for the state; they think it brings them to such full development that they can be of greater service to the state; and they despise those who, in or out of love, are unhappy because of love, since unhappiness is an un- or anti-social malady and must be liquidated. It is not easy to be sure how much of this is talk, how much is a fact; but once in a while you get the accent of simple truth. It does appear that many young people, as given as any of us to emotion and desire, think of love as being not the greatest thing in the world, not the purpose of life, and decidedly not the most interesting thing to talk and think about.

Romance Is Out

Among the things the Soviet Union is probably liquidating as hard and fast as it can is the idea (and that's very hard and fast, indeed) is romantic love. I should think that the thinkers for the Soviets have decided against romantic love as a hangover from the middle ages and a capitalist trick, to make the proletarian think itself happy when it is really miserable. Well, we have heard of love as nature's little trick to assure the future of the race—although I have never seen why brute nature has the faintest desire to keep this particular race going—and we've heard of it as the last refuge of illusionists; or why not give it a thought as a capitalist weapon, and at the same time take our hats off to the inventor? The bow and arrow have gone, gunpowder is weakening, and slavery is under attack, but love is still doing business in the old way, perhaps with a little less elaboration than in the days of the troubadours, but fundamentally the same.

The Great Lovers

Mr. Forrest, who seems to have appointed himself my permanent critic (or pain in the neck) says that love is all right, and I yield the point. But I'd like him to be more explicit. How many people of his acquaintance have experienced the kind of love Shakespeare wrote about in "Romeo and Juliet"? (Incidentally, Shakespeare seems to have dabbled in it himself to such an extent that "Romeo and Juliet" is a thoroughly bad play, with some of his worst poetry; an affected and false-sounding farago all through). History and romance combined give us half a dozen pairs of lovers to remember: Paolo and Francesca, Tristan and Isolde, Dante and Beatrice, Petrarch and Laura—chiefly poets, or poets' ideals, and most of them Latin.

Here we have a fine, growing country, the United States, as good as any other country in the world, and better, and we haven't a great romantic pair of lovers to offer in that category. France has Abelard and Heloise, Germany offers Wagner and his Matilda. Of course, modern Russians would deplore the love of Catherine the Great and Potemkin, but it had its moments. And we have nothing.

Love Needs Its Poets

The requêtes of an eternal love affair seem to be pretty ample—love must be unrequited or unfulfilled, and it must be celebrated by a good poet. Neither of these qualifications, Mr. Forrest may note, have anything to do with love itself, with its inner nature; they are both accidents and one of them is opposed to love in action. Considering all this, isn't there something to be said about the enormous overvaluation which the poets have given to love and imposed on us? Maybe love isn't all right, after all—only three-quarters right. Or I'll take a half.

"Palmy Days" Comes to Love's Orpheum Friday
Eddie Cantor's second musical film extravaganza, "Palmy Days," will have its first downtown exhibition at Love's Orpheum Friday.

Vaudville headlines of the new bill will be Marry Collins and Harry Peterson in a potpourri of screwy comedy and musical bits, called, "You're a Wise Guy." Billy Rand will be another highlight of the bill, with the Magard Brothers in a dance diversionette. Ray and Harrison in "A Pain Ballet," are among others billed. Joseph Riana and company in their original farboard balancing and juggling act, and Grace Johnson, international syncopated songstress, appear also.

Read about these people—not characters born of an author's imagination but men and women who are alive—who had the extraordinary experience of gaining wealth quite unexpectedly. The details of their good fortune will be found in one of the many absorbing articles, next Sunday, in The American Weekly.

MAYOR IN PARLEY WITH SHIP OPERATORS TO END STRIKE

LEVINS TAKES PROPOSAL TO ASSOCIATES

Decision Will Be Submitted Later by Curley to Longshoremen

Mayor Curley today took the first step in his effort to end the strike of ship operators by presenting a proposal to the Longshoremen's Association. The proposal, which was made in a private meeting with the association's representatives, was to have the city employ a number of men to handle the cargo of the ships. The city would then pay the Longshoremen's Association a fee for each man employed. The proposal was met with a mixed reception by the association's representatives. Some of them felt that the proposal was a fair one, while others felt that it was not. The city's representatives, however, felt that the proposal was a fair one and that it was the only way to end the strike.

Three times a week, Spring practice is held at West Point. The football team is allowed to practice three times a week.

Forward Passing Big Factor in Football

usually try to keep them in view with the passer and the ball. If they are covering a man they pick him out and follow him wherever he goes, which sounds easy, but once tried with a fast, tricky runner proves much more difficult.

Alto, the place on the field will determine his decision. Many a mistaken decision near the goal line has resulted in victory or defeat in a close game. If he chooses to intercept, he must judge the pace of the ball and allow the receiver to go beyond him. If the pass has more power than he figured, it may carry over the line to completion and a touchdown. On the other hand, his interception may be a touchdown as well.

These are only a few of the lightning decisions that take place out there on the field when a forward pass play is called. There are many others, such as defensive players out of position, leaving a hole for a pass, teams notoriously weak or strong against forward passing, the threat of a pass allowing the running attack more strength and many other factors.

Another exclusive article on football by Eddie Casey will appear in the sports pages of the Boston Evening American on Friday.

CLOSING MARKET

New York, Oct. 14.—The closing was heavy in quiet Wall Street trading today. Important shares were unable to extend a morning advance today and slipped lower during most of the slow session, closing heavy.

Western Union, of 8, and Eastman, down 6, were conspicuous sellers.

American Telephone, American Gas and Electric, and American Steel, all down 1/2, and U. S. Steel, New York Central, International Harvester, Westinghouse, American Can and American Cyanamid, all down 1/4.

UNDER $10000000

Shares were well under the 2,000,000 share mark.

The bond market developed a heavy tone, along with stocks, with full house trading moderately.

Weekly report of freight charges, showing a gain of 20.6 cents, carrying the total to 227.8 cents, was widely regarded as encouraging the bond market.

The bond market was buoyed by the fact that the freight movement was reduced over the last week, but the total was 120.48 cents over the last week of a year ago.

STOCKS

Some observers were inclined to regard the sharp uptick in the movement of freight charges of shippers that an increase in freight rates might be granted. Nevertheless, it is not expected that an increase is granted, it will be made immediately effective.

Weekly steel trade review, while reporting little change in input of steel, spoke of some improvement in buying, particularly from automobile industry, as the time approaches when reduction must be started on new models.

Among the first of the important quarterly earnings statements was that of American Cyanamid, which was about in line with Wall Street estimates. While the third quarter of 1931 was a share was 14 cents under the quarterly dividend, the aggregate for the first three quarters amounts to 57.6 cents above the dividends for the entire year.

Furthermore, the last quarter showed a fair gain over the third, so that the entire annual dividend of 58 cents is expected to be earned by a fair margin.

Oil Merger Plan

Is Being Sought

Wall Street had been conversant about merger of Standard Oil of New Jersey and Standard Oil of California, but the Standard Oil of California, in an announcement, said it was not being considered.

Treatment of preferred stock of Standard Oil of California, which is the main stumbling block, one plan having been drawn up and then with the merger of the two companies and Standard has been definitely agreed upon.

Standard Oil of California, which probably will not be made until it is known definitely whether the Standard Oil of California will be merged with the Standard Oil of New Jersey.
